

Buddha's Vision

The Buddhist monks and other lay people teach 'Buddha's vision' all over world. But the truth is Buddha did not teach any kind of theory and he never said anything to do or not to do. What Buddha says is, "come and see". Here is the further explanation of what is the Buddha's vision:

- * Buddha's vision is not based on any kind of Knowledge;
- * Buddha's vision is beyond the Knowledge, but not the upper level of Knowledge;
- * Buddha's vision is not relative: thus is neither Science nor Philosophy as, Science and Philosophy are always relative;
 - * Buddha's vision is not a religion;
- * Buddha's vision cannot teach or write, but you can see yourselves;
- * Buddha's vision has no duality, up or down, good or bad etc.;
- * Buddha's vision means get rid of our minds, but not purifying our minds;
 - * Buddha's vision is beyond the time, birth and death;
 - * Buddha's vision has no adherence to any kinds of rites and rituals;
- * Buddha did not attain the peak of wisdom, but he gave up the wisdom;

Dr.Tissa Senanayake

ආචාර්ය නිස්ස මස්නානායක

E-mail:- tissamahima@gmail.com